THURSDAY, 09/10/25

Summary: GERARD TER BORCH (7) appears to be progressing nicely and ran a solid race when second over this track and trip in early September in a handicap. He could go one better this time, potentially getting the better of ZELKER (6), who finished fourth over 2400m last time out in September, having previously won over the same distance at Compiègne in June. The slight concern is today's drop back in trip. FAITHFUL FRIEND (16) shapes as a reliable each-way prospect from the foot of the handicap. OLYA (3) scored over 1600m in 2024 at this track and shouldn't be discounted. GRECIAN COMET (5) is another with claims and could be in the mix at the finish.
