This looks far more straightforward. UZEL (1) is the main danger—though below his best recently, he's capable of pushing the favourite if bouncing back. ## FRIDAY, 11/07/25

Summary: CAREGIVER (4) has been a bit below his best recently, but is capable in this class of handicap. He was a decent second at Compiègne in June and should get the better of FASTER (3), who had a confidence-boosting success at Chantilly late last month in a Class 3 handicap. PIANTARELLA (8) has been performing well on her latest two runs and can once again give a solid account of herself. RUBIS GOLD (11) looks best of the others.
