Ajrad Royal Tribute Time Interval

AJRAD has placed in all five of his career outings so far and an aggressive ride could help the New Approach gelding to get off the mark here. The three-year-old probably doesn't have much in hand off a mark of 76, but front runners often do well here and there isn't much to fear in this opening contest. Royal Tribute didn't have a clear run when fourth at Nottingham last month and warrants respect along with Time Interval, who wears a first-time hood now dropped back to 7f.

Love Destiny Glenn Coco Idoapologise

LOVE DESTINY accounted for Glenn Coco (second) two starts ago at Chelmsford and would be hard to beat if replicating that level of performance. Mark Johnston's charge wasn't quite as good when fourth at Musselburgh a fortnight ago, but he was 2lb 'wrong' at the weights there and looks on better terms now. Idoapologise is lightly raced for a four-year-old and Tom Marquand looks a positive jockey booking, while Legal Reform and Biggles are other names fancied to be involved.
